Infrastructure Sustainability Council

“Ensuring all infrastructure delivers social, cultural, environmental and economic benefits”

The infrastructure sector is key to addressing some of the major challenges of our time whether it is climate change, addressing inequality or riding the wave of the technology disruption.

Within our region, we have experienced the impacts of climate change and the catastrophic aftermath of extreme weather events at an accelerating rate over the last decade; and we are already vulnerable to the negative impacts of poorly managed urban growth and declining productivity. Socio-economic equality and mobility are going backwards.

With half of the infrastructure portfolio needed to meet global needs in 2050 already planned, under construction or commissioned it is time to stop ‘kicking the can down the road’ and make some bold moves to ensure a resilient, climate positive future?

Not only do we need it deliver infrastructure that is sustainable, but we need to ensure that is infrastructure for sustainability.

The ISC is proud to serve an industry that enables significant inter-generational change. We help generate social, environmental and economic returns for society by working closely with industry to embed sustainability in every aspect of our infrastructure and benefit people living in Australia, Aotearoa New Zealand and beyond.

Join us in October at ISC Connect where we will consider Our decade of action for people, the planet and economy by exploring infrastructure that is fit for purpose, looking at world class infrastructure for a sustainable 2032 Olympics, renewable energy zones, a deep dive into infrastructure for climate action, resilience, circular economy and so much more.
